and that’s a brave step in itself

"I think there's a great awareness that, number one, falls can be prevented," Petrie said.

We have all of us by nature a certain divination and parturient vaticination in our minds of some higher good and perfection than either power or knowledge.